Fellow New Yorkers, are you looking for more than toothless marches, but not ready to take up arms? If you don't have a serious record, redecorations might be right for you! They are among the most impactful, principled actions one can take without a very high risk of permanent, life altering consequences*.

Look at Palestine Action in Europe and the UK**. Yes, they're known for staying to be arrested to shut down a weapons plant, but the majority of their actions are hit and run. Guerilla tactics make sense in asymmetric warfare.

What gets them wins, like Barclay's, Allianz, and others dropping Elbit, are direct action campaigns, coordinated and focused on specific targets, with consistency and repetition: 15+ Barclay's branches targeted in one night, 15 Allianz locations in one night, 11 HSBC branches in one night, there's consistently a few new actions every couple weeks. NYC, we can do this too!

Don't despair, organize! Strategize! Fascism has been here!
Action is the antidote to despair!
Solidarity means attack!

*This compilation does include actions with higher consequences than the average redecoration. You may want to consult a movement lawyer to assess your risks. Consider how the consequences compare to what Palestinians are facing.
